

The NAB is clearly threatened by the presence of new competition in the world of broadcasting. The last time I checked, our economy was based on the concept of free competition. Rather than concentrate on supporting those that are improving their services and technology to gain a greater share of the marketplace, maybe they would be better off to have developed a more consumer oriented product on their own. In the meantime, the public should be allowed to enjoy the best possible product, which is done by the consumer friendly business plan provided by XM. Do not allow such legislation to pass.
